Opened in 2005 on the famed Restaurant Row, the Beverly Hills location greets guests and passersby alike with a striking blue tower featuring a view to an authentic fogo de chão – the type of ground fire originally used in the process of cooking Brazilian meat. Upon entering, guests are welcomed astride a 27 foot wall of wine, and escorted into a luxurious dining room decorated in the colorful and dramatic style of the Southern Brazilian gaucho.

The dining area seats 280 people in comfort, and can accommodate up to 100 guests in a semi-private room. For more intimate gatherings, a private dining room is available for groups numbering up to 34.

Valet parking is offered at lunch and dinner, and limited metered parking is available on the street.
